Mind is a program of problem-solving, through creative thinking and team work, which is represented in many schools. The Potter-Dix District, which is in the far west end of Nebraska, has several Odyssey of the Mind teams, and their primary team has been selected as the only Odyssey of the Mind team in the United States to represent this country in an international conference and competition in the Netherlands, during April. For a small school of less than 250 students, they've had an outstanding record in the competition nationally, and in all of the Odyssey of the Mind competitions they're usually the smallest school that's represented. So it's indeed a great honor for this small school and for the state of Nebraska to have an Odyssey of the Mind team that will represent this country and the only representative of this country. So I would ask you to support this resolution which congratulates the Potter-Dix High School Odyssey of the Mind team, including their members Ashley Mueller, Stacy Bemis, Megan McKinney, Amber Haack, Marcie Sprenger, Sharon Tincher, and Sarah Stahl, and their coaches Glynnis and Tom Mueller. I will appreciate your support in adoption of this resolution. Thank you.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Matzke, your light is on next. Senator Wesely.

SENATOR WESELY: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Just briefly, you know a month ago this resolution would have come up and I wouldn't have had any idea what the Odyssey of the Mind was. But it just so happened, last Saturday, I was a judge at an Odyssey of the Mind contest in Milford, where my daughter was part of a team that competed. And I found it fascinating. I'd never heard of this process before, but it's really an interesting system of trying to allow these younger students, and sometimes older, into high schools, be creative and compete with one another and have a chance to excel in this national, international competition. It is a great honor to have that team selected. And now that I'm familiar with the program, I commend Potter-Dix and the success that we've had, and all of those that have participated in Odyssey of the Mind programs anywhere in the state of Nebraska. It's a great program, and I rise in support of the resolution. Thank you.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Seeing no further debate, Senator Matzke,
